

Amanda Oldridge

Regional Human Resources Director
Linfox International Group

Ms. Amanda Oldridge serves as Linfox International Group's Director of Human Resources, responsible as such for helping the 18,000 people of Linfox International Group succeed both professionally and personally. She joined Linfox in 2017 and has been managing Human Resources functions across Asia and undertaking a variety of management projects -- including regional talent development, organisation transformation, and strategic HR protocol and policy.

Prior to joining Linfox, Ms. Oldridge worked as Vice President of Human Resources for APAC and China and Global Lead for Learning and Organisation Efficiency at Verifone. Previously, she was Senior Director of Organisation Development for Novartis Vaccines and Diagnostics in Boston, USA. Overall, she has worked in Asia for 25 years in HR consulting, executive coaching, and leadership development.

Ms. Oldridge is a qualified executive coach and specialises in coaching leaders to develop their leadership skills as well as to motivate and empower their teams. She is also trained in the Behavioural Science Program and qualified for the use of different psychometric assessment tools for consulting and coaching. She has recently collaborated in ASEAN Women Entrepreneurs Network (AWEN) activities. Ms. Oldridge holds a Bachelor of Business degree in Transport Economics from RMIT (Australia), an MBA from Deakin University (Australia), a Graduate Diploma in Counselling from Australian College of Applied Psychology (Australia), and a Master of Science in Psychology from the University of Liverpool (U.K).